HBL Asset Management Limited

OVERVIEW OF THE INSTITUTION

RATING RATIONALE

HBL AMC was incorporated in 2006 as an unlisted public limited company under companies ordinance, 1984. It is licensed to conduct asset management and investment advisory services. The company is a wholly owned subsidiary of Habib Bank Limited. Financial statements of AMC for FY15 were audited by M/s Ernst & Young Ford Rhodes Sidat Hyder, Chartered Accountants. Internal Audit is outsourced to M/s A.F. Ferguson, Chartered Accountants

The ratings assigned to HBL Asset Management Limited (HBL AMC) takes into account presence of a structured investment process and sound control infrastructure. The AMC benefits from parental support and commitment from its single shareholder, HBL, the largest commercial bank in the country.

HBL AMC has a market share of around 4% in the domestic asset management industry. After declining by around 9% during FY15, the AUM's have posted some recovery during the ongoing year. HBL AMC manages a diversified product portfolio of 9 funds catering to conventional and Islamic investors. While management had earlier planned to launch 5 new funds during FY15, only one new fund could be launched. HBL Mustahekum Sarmaya Fund-1, a capital protected fund, was launched in January, 2015 with an initial investment of around Rs. 1.9b. The AMC aims to better align product suit with investors evolving needs and the competitive environment. An Islamic asset allocation fund has been lunched on January 07, 2016. Albeit improving on a year-on-year basis, unit holder continues to feature sizeable concentration with retail investors representing 20.9% of total investment at end-FY15 (FY14: 10%). More than 40% of the AUMs represent investment from HBL.

HBL AMC's senior management team is experienced. Vacancies created following the resignation of two fund managers were timely filled by hiring a qualified external resource and an internal promotion. Moreover, the AMC has inducted dedicated head of departments for conventional and Islamic sales. There is room for improvement in the organizational structure of the AMC. The IT platform is adequate and supports the growing operations of the company. HR automated system was implemented during FY15.

HBL AMC has instituted an autonomous investment process along with formalized decision making. Secondary research is well documented. Risk and control functions are separated from investment management. While there is a process in place to monitor key risk metrics on an ongoing basis, risk management framework may be further strengthened with the implementation of various risk limits. There were no material investment breaches during the period under review. Overall investment strategy of the AMC is risk averse. Stocks funds are predominately invested in blue chip companies which have underperformed during the outgoing year. Resultantly, performance of stock funds remained depressed. Returns of the income and money market funds remained largely competitive.

HBL AMC distribution network comprises own sales force, sponsoring bank branches and third party distributors. Strength of the own sales force has been strengthened. A target based approach is followed whereby monthly sales targets are allocated to each team member. Numbers of HBL branches which sell AMC products have been gradually increased to over 250 ((FY14: 82 branches). During the outgoing year, the AMC channelized the sales of the newly launched capital protected fund through HBL branches. Meanwhile, growth of the investment advisory function has been subdued; SMA portfolio was reported well below the target.
